To

Russell Lobe Morris

Whose life has been devoted to West Virginia University this volume of the Monticola is respectfully dedicated.

RUSSELL LOVE MORRIS was born at Teays, Putnam County, West Virginia, on November 14, 1868. Upon the completion of his elementary education he entered West Virginia University in the fall of 1885. He studied in the College of Engineering for three years and then returned to his native county to engage in the timber business. During this period he developed that business shrewdness which has in later years made him a prominent figure in the city of Morgantown and began his career as a public servant by serving as deputy sheriff of Puutnam county. He returned to the University in 1892 and was graduated in the spring of 1895 with the B. S. C. E. Degree.

Prof. Morris' teaching connection with the University began in the year of his graduation by his appointment as Assistant in Civil and Mining Engineering. He was promoted to the rank of Instructor in 1897; Assistant Professor in 1898 and Professor in 1903. In 1907 he was made Professor of Civil Engineering and in 1911 Professor of Railway and Highway Engineering. During the early days of his teaching he continued his studies in engineering and had the C. E. degree conferred upon him in 1898.

Professor Morris has further served his state as Draftsman of the West Virginia Geological Survey. In this capacity he prepared the first published geological map of the state. He has later prepared detail maps of Marion and Monongalia counties. He was city engineer of Morgantown for three years and is at present consulting enginner for the State Board of Agriculture.

Although it may seem strange in a teacher Prof. Morris has considerable business ability. He has been a party to many of the real estate transactions which have taken place in Morgantown and has shown a lively interest in the progress of that city.

It is the students of the College of Engineering who know Prof. Morris best and admire him most. They have come in contact with him in the classroom and in the field and they appreciate his interest in them and their work. He likes to be with the boys; to talk with them and know them. Here lies the heart of his work; here it is that he has served the university and the state best of all, for no graduate of that college will ever forget him or the title by which he is familiarly known on the campus, Prof. "Sport" Morris.

Sophomore History.

Shortly after their matriculation, the class of nineteen twenty-three gathered in Commencement Hall to effect an organization. For the first time in the history of the school, more than half of the Freshmen were present at this meeting. Such an auspicious beginning could but foretell a brilliant career for the class. And their subsequent history has borne witness to that prophecy.

When in September, nineteen twenty, the class returned to the pleasont halls of learning, it was with renewed ambition and eagerness to serve the school. Carefully and thoughtfully they chose their officers for the year, selecting those in whose qualities of leadership they had most confidence, and through the ensuing months loyally followed their wise guidance.

Much has the class accomplished in scholarship, in athletics, and in the council room, but they are determined to achieve still greater things in the two years yet to come.

FRESHMEN

Freshman History.

When September came up into the mountains, she brought with her a large and hopeful bunch of Freshmen, dropped them right in the middle of the old Circle, and went blithely on her way. From all corners of the state and country came these new Little Mountaineers by train, by automobile, by aeroplane, by boat, and by foot. Their activities commenced at once. They immediately began to sport green tags around to show that they were green, and later wore little gold and blue hats to show everybody, including the world and Morgantown, that they were real Mountaineers and proud of it.

An organization and election of officers quickly followed the advent of the Freshmen, and from then on, the class of nineteen hundred and twenty-four was an organization whose greatest ambition was to serve and bring honor to the school. To be sure, its members met difficulties as they went along. Some of them were shorn of their long cultivated locks, yet they soon grew back again. Some flunked out of school, but they got back in again. Some were sick, but they got well again. All through the year has the Freshman class worked for and boosted the school. Leading athletes of the University it has contributed. Scholastic and literary geniuses are among the members.

With broadened experience, with strong ties of friendship, and with undaunted spirit, the Freshman class now comes to the end of its first year in the mountain stronghold. Its ambition still remains unchanged, and it is with the good of the school uppermost in their hearts, that its members leave on the wings of June for their homes all over the state and country.

GEOGRAPHICAL

Hostess (as the dancing begins)—My dears, I beg you to be a little more decorous. This is not the seashore!

IN ON THE CLEAN-UP

First Lunch Hound—Well, old strawberry house boy, I just had a plate of oxtail soup and feel bully.

Second Coonted Friend—Nothing to it, old watermelon. I just had a plate of hash and feel like everything.

THE WHISTLER

Jane—I'm mad at Jack.

Ruth—So soon? What's wrong?

Jane—He knows so many naughty songs.

Ruth—Does he sing them to you?

Jane—No, the mean thing, he just whistles the tones.

GOES TO FIX IT

They were in a tea room after the game, he and she. As they rose to go out, she stopped suddenly, baby blue eyes frightened and wondering. A triple embarrassed too, as if something had . . . . . She looked down at her silken ankles and a deep flush stole over her. "Oh," she cried, "I forgot to telephone mother I wouldn't be home for dinner."

MUSIC

Cook—A pretty girl is like a melody.

Ignatz Knight—Yeh, I saw one the other night that looked pretty sharp and she knocked one flat so I sent her a rute.

Ignatius Cook—What did she say?

Ignatz Knight—Oh, she told me not to play around.

GEOLOGICALLY SPEAKING

Blink—What's Bang doing now?

Wink—She's a fault-finder.

Blink—Oh you mean a professional crab.

Wink—No, a geologist.

A STUDY IN SCARLET

He told the shy maid of his love
The color left her cheeks
But on the shoulder of his coat
It showed for several weeks.

HE'D DONE IT

"Prep," called an "old" man from upstairs, "have you turned the gas on in the parlor as I told you?"

"Yes," answered the victim gloomly, "can't you smell it?"

WHY

Helen K. (critically)—I never could see much in those crepe de chine dresses.

Grace M. (also a critic)—Oh my dear, but you never looked at them in the right light.

EVERY LITTLE MOVEMENT

Minister—Would you care to join us in the new missionary movement?

Miss V. Shannabarger—I'm crazy to try it. Is it anything like the foxtrot?

SAYS WHICH

Mack—What's funnier than a one armed man trying to wind his wrist watch?

Knutt—A glass eye at a key hole.

ANOTHER FORD JOKE

"Why are school teachers like Ford cars?"

"Because they give the most service for the least money."

* * *

WOMEN

Women are such funny things
But—I like 'em
They don't help you sprout your wings
But—I like 'em
They make you laugh
They make you weep
They make you lose a lot of sleep
They are the d——est things to keep
But—I like 'em.

* * *

One of the Annex girls seeing the track men go by in their abbreviated suits.

"And still we send clothes to the Armenians.

THE CUE

Bill Crow (turning round in audience)—Can't you see anything?

West Hady (pathetically)—Can't see a streak of the stage.

Bill Crom (sarcastically)—Well, then I'll tell you what to do. You keep your eye on me and laugh when I do.

* * *

FROM HIS HEART

....Malissa Crowl, a young woman of rather serious turn endeavored to involve her professor in this logical discussion:

"Doctor Callahan," she asked, "do you not believe in infant damnation?"

"I believe in it," said Dr. Callahan, "only at night."

FRIENDS

"I hear you had a pretty successful banquet over at your house last night."

"Yeah, a couple of our alumni are revenue officers."

ATHLETICS

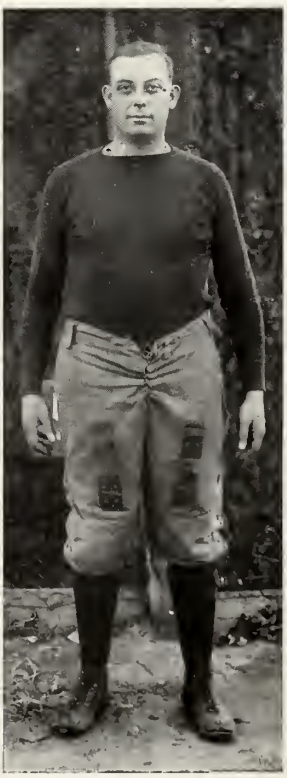

FOOTBALL

The 1920 football season was far more successful than many of the West Virginia University's most ardent admirers predicted for the eleven when they saw the bunch of "green" material that Coach McIntyre had on hands when the training season opened at Mt. Lake Park, Md., early in September. It is true that there was some mighty fine material at the camp but practically all of the men were untried and inexperienced, and too much could not be expected of them in their first year of inter-collegiate competition.

Head Coach McIntyre faced a tough proposition in September, when he had only three weeks to get his team ready for the opening game with Wesleyan, an eleven that defeated the Mountaineers by a decisive score in 1917. Realizing that a victory over Wesleyan must be earned at any cost, McIntyre and his assistants worked frantically to whip a Varsity in shape and get it working smoothly by September 5, the date of the opening game. Wesleyan was defeated by two touchdowns, but at a great sacrifice. It seems that the men did not receive enough drilling in the rudiments of the game, and their playing throughout the remainder of the season showed a lack of knowledge on several technical points. Even in the Thanksgiving game with W. & J. blunders were made and once in the second quarter the team was fooled by an on-side kick. Of course nothing was omitted during the preparation for the opening game but so much had to be crowded into the short space of time that the men failed to grasp everything. It is true, too, that there was not any time for elementary instruction during he entire season, as no college had a schedule that could compare with West Virginia's. After the Wesleyan game came the battle with Lehigh, the final score being 7 to 7, which was also the final score of the Lehigh game with Penn State. This close affair was followed by games with Pittsburgh, George Washington, Yale, Princeton, Washington and Lee, Rutgers, Bethany and Washington and Jefferson. In order to win a majority of her games the Varsity had to travel at top speed throughout the entire sehedule and her regulars were never given a rest.

West Virginia showed her real strength in the Princeton and the Washington Lee games. After losing to Yale by a score of 28 to 0 the Saturday before the Mountaineers again made the "man killing" trip from Morgantown to the coast and held Princeton to a 10 to 3 score. The Tigers were staring defeat in the face when late in the final period one of her backs intercepted a forward pass and ran for a touchdown. After this heart-breaking defeat the team left the following Thursday for another long trip to Charleston, without hardly a chance to practice. The team with its back against the wall played a great game against the Southerners who were defeated 14 to 10. This was followed by victories over Rutgers and Bethany, two important rivals of recent years.

While West Virginia did not close her season in a blaze of glory, as some predicted, after her showing in the Princeton, W. & L., Rutgers and Bethany games, the eleven put up a stubborn fight against the Presidents and went down to defeat like true sporsmen. W. & J., which had been playing mediocre ball in a majoriy of her games, pulled together Thanksgiving and played a brand of unbeatable football. The Presidents presented the strongest lineup of any team that faced the Old Gold and Blue this year and their playing was faultless.

In the opinions of many followers of the game West Virginia was over-rated. Because of this fact the Mountaineers entered many games a favorite either to win or to escape with a close defeat. This occurred several times during the past season and the fact that very few supporters lost any money shows hat the strength of the team was unknown to outsiders. Had the team been rated properly the defeats would not have been such great surprises to the football world, which forgot that the wonderful team of '19 was weakened by the loss of eight men by graduation. They forgot that such stars as Rodgers, Bailey, Hite, King, Mills, Hager, Archer and Ice would not be in the lineup this season, and that their places were going to be filled for the most part by freshmen and not from capable substitutes from last year's scrubs. This overrating was unfortunate for West Virginia and resulted in the failure of the team to improve the eleven's national standing.

In West Virginia the Mountaineers still reign supreme and when the "green" team turned in victories over Wesleyan and Washington and Lee, they made the season a success in the eyes of the home folks. While victories over Pitt and the Presidents would have been welcomed and triumphs at the expense of Yale and Princeton would have added much prestige, West Virginians are willing to accept the victories over the two rivals as a means of deternining whether the season was a success or failure.

The victory over Washington and Lee was the first time that the Generals had been defeated by the Varsity since 1902, while the downing of Wesleyan brought the Varsity into the good graces of many who were surprised at her showing in the famous Wesleyan debacle of '17. These two victories alone would have been sufficient to make the season a success to many, especially the old grads who do not feel kindly towards either the Generals or the Methodists. In addition to these two victories the team also chalked up vicories over Gerge Washington, Rutgers and Bethany.

The season of '20 marked the close of the regime of "Tubby" McIntyre as head coach of the Mountaineers. He is to be succeeded by "Cutie" Spears, the former Dartmouth mentor. The passing of McIntyre brings to mind the fact that it was the teams coached by him that placed the University in the limelight of the athletic world. He was always a hard and conscientious worker and though never given the assistance of many high class aides he turned out teams that ranked with the best in the country. Under his mentorship the University produced two All-American men in the persons of Rodgers and Bailey and besides a galaxy of other stars as Chenoweth, Leatherwood, Ice, Hite, King, Webster and many others.

After four years of faithful work Captain Howard Lentz is lost to the squad for the coming year. "Beanie" was never a sensational performer but when in a game he was always playing a steady game and took part in the work that receives small notice. Lentz was an indefatigable worker, a conscentious slugger and a man in whom the fans and his team-mates had confidence. At backing up the line he was a wonder and when a few yards were needed he could always be counted on to gain them. His loss will leave a place hard to fill and the memory of his work on the Old Gold and Blue team will long remain in the memory of the Mountaineer fans.

For the season of '21 the Varsity has elected "Bob" Kay as captain. He is certain to be one of the best captains that the team has ever produced. "Bob" is a natural leader and has the ability to instill a great amount of "pep" and fight to his comrades. He is one of the most popular players that ever donned the University's moleskins and he is certain to lead a team next year that will rank high in the history of the school.

All Varsity supporters were breatly shocked at the untimely death of "Pistol Bill" Johnson, star tackle of the Mountaineer aggregation. Johnson had three more years of Varsity football and would have likely made one of the best line-men that the University ever produced. He had an uncanny knack of kicking field goals which would doubtlessly won many games for his Alma Mater had not his untimely death occurred.

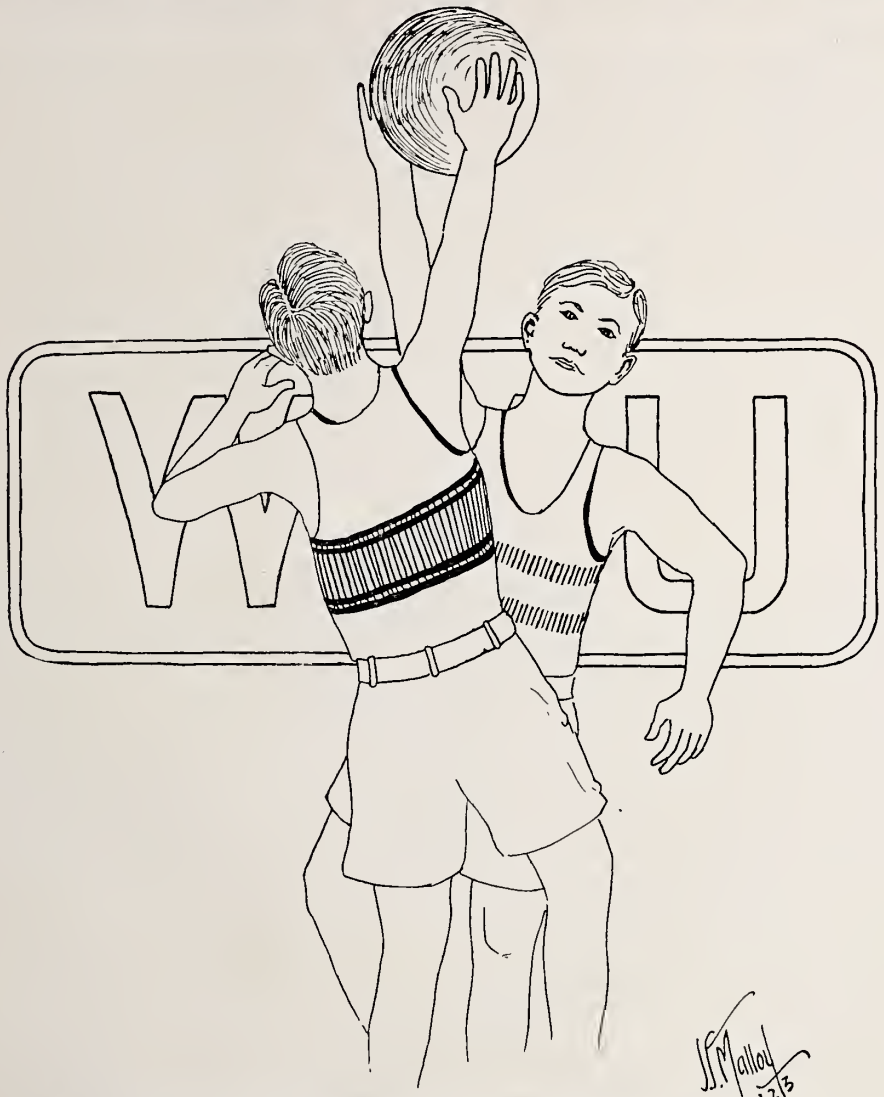

The schedule for next season while not complete as yet will contain the following games:

Oct. 8—Pittsburgh at Forbes Field.
Oct. 15—Dhio University at Morgantown.
Oct. 22—Bucknell at Morgantown.
Oct. 29—Lehigh at South Bethlehem.
Nov. 5—W. & L. at Charleston.
Nov. 12—Virbinia at Charlottesville.
Nov. 19—Rutgers at New Brunswick.
Nov. 24—W. & J. at Morgantown.

In addition there will be two other games scheduled at the opening of the season. The schedule is very attractive and will compare favorably with that of any other college in this section. The necessity of having to play three straight games in November away from home detracts somewhat from the attractiveness but that feature is more than overshadowed by the good qualities.
The schedule marks the opening of football relationships with the University of Virginia which we hope will develop into an annual game.

BASKETBALL

By virtue of the most sensational finish ever made by any West Virginia University basketball team the 1921 Mountaineer floor outfit turned what appeared to be a poor season into a great success. With five games remaining to be played the Varsity appeared to have little chance against Geneva, Washington and Lee, Muskingum, Pitt, and Washington and Jefferson, her opponents in these games. West Virginia had just suffered defeat at the hands of Pitt and Wash-Jeff and it was a tired bunch of athletes that lined up against Geneva College at Beaver Falls, Pa., for the last game on the western Pennsylvania trip. Despite the black outlook the Mountaineers seemed to take on new life and trimmed Geneva 29 to 24. After this contest the Varsity easily outclassed W. and L. and Muskingum, and earned a one-sided victory from Pitt. The only team that forced Coach Stadsvold's men to the limit after the Geneva game was Elmer Carroll's fast W. & J. outfit which played a great game here.

When the season opened the prospects for a successful season were very bright and the team easily won its first four games. Then the unexpected happened. On the annual eastern trip West Virginia dropped five straight contests, losing two of them by a close margin. In the next two games, which were played here, victories were earned over Bethany and Westminster. In the latter game the Mountaineers were crippled by the loss of Doug Bowers, who had to leave the squad because of scholastic difficulties. The absence of this promising guard was surely felt in the next four games, all of which were lost, despite the fact that the first two, those with Virginia Poly Institute and Grove City were played on the local floor. After the fourth straight defeat came the memorable game with Geneva, which may be said to be the turning point of the season. During and after this contest the Mountaineers played a brand of basketball that has seldom been equalled here.

G. Hill Shifted to Guard

Early in the season Coach Stadsvold used George Hill and Captain Martin at forwards, Kiger at center, and Hawkins and Bowers at guards. After the Bethany game, which was Bowers' last appearance in the lineup, White was played at guard in his place. However, this combination failed to work smoothly and Coach Stadsvold decided on a most drastic shakeup in the lineup on the eve of the Pennsylvania invasion. The rejuvenated lineup found Pierre Hill at forward in his brother's place, and George back at his old guard position. This combination worked in great shape from the start, although the men suffered from lack of practice in the Pitt and W. and J. games. Pierre Hill who had been subbing throughout the season proved a wonderful forward, and George Hill in addition to playing a strong game on the defense began scoring more regularly. While at forward George Hill was held scoreless in many games, but when shifted to guard he only failed to score in one game. With the Hill brothers smoothing over two weak spots Captain Martin, Clem Kiger and Bob Hawkins all seemed to improve and in the last five games the Mountaineers seemed unbeatable.

In spite of one losing streak of five games and another of four, the West Virginia tossers finished the season with a record of eleven games won and nine lost. The victories over all the teams played in the tri-tsate section except Grove City College makes it possible for the Mountaineers to claim second place in this region. This position is shared by both Pitt and Wash-Jeff.

Captain Martin lead the team in scoring with 90 field goals and 114 foul goals to his credit, thus making him responsible for 294 of the 695 points scored by his team. Kiger at center was second in scoring. Martin, Kiger, George Hill and Hawkins played in at least a part of every game.

Barring unexpected developments every member of both the Varsity and the Freshman basketball team will be back next year. The outlook for a successful season is very bright and even now Mountaineer fans are looking forward to a championship aggregation. All fans are hoping that Coach Francis Stadsvold will return next winter to again be the mentor of the floor game. Since his coming here Stadsvold has proven to be one of the best coaches of basketball in the collegiate world. He has installed a system to the playing the court game which was conspicuous by its absence previous to his coming here.

FRESHMEN WON 13, LOST 8

In one respect the record of the freshman outfit is similar to that of the Varsity. It is in that they also suffered a losing streak of five games. These reverses did not prevent the freshies from staging a great comehack, and the team finished the season with a record of thirteen victories and eight defeats. Captain Bartell with 75 field goals and 143 free tosses to his credit lead the "Little Mountaineers" in the scoring department, although much of the credit for the team's successful season goes to the work of the scrappy and lightning-fast guards, Heizer and Burke. The work of this pair was the outstanding feature of almost every game.

BASEBALL

Base Ball.

West Virginia was indeed fortunate in securing Ira E. Rodgers as coach of the 1921 baseball team. Rodgers was graduated from West Virginia in 1920. He had been a star member of the baseball team during his four years in school. The team had a very successful season and we feel that this is due largely to the efforts of the coach.

Candidates for baseball were called out about the middle of March but practice was soon suspended on account of inclement weather. About a week previous to the first game practice was resumed and a team was whipped into shape in fast order.

The first and second games were with the Fairmont Collegians, an aggregation of semi-professional ball players organized from Fairmont and surrounding towns. The games were played on Friday and Saturday, April 8 and 9. The Varsity took the "Coal City" boys over in fine style.

Three weeks later the team started on a ten day trip meeting some of the best teams in the East. The trip was not altogether a successful one owing to the fact that little time was available for preparations. Rain caused cancellation of part of the games.

The team profited by experience of the trip East and the record for the rest of the season was one to be envied by any college team, defeating such teams as Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Carnegie Tech, Grove City College and winning one and losing one to Bethany. The season closed with a game with the Alumni on Commencement day, the Varsity winning by a score of 9 to 1.

TRACK

Track.

The West Virginia track season could hardly be called a successful one but considering the material at hand and the short time she has supported track athletics we are satisfied with the showing made.

A relay team was sent to the Pennsylvania relays but was put in a class too fast and failed to place.

Dual meets were held with Carnegie Tech and University of Pittsburgh at Schenley Oval and both resulted in victories for the opponents.

West Virginia was represented in the Pittsburgh Collegiate meet and in the Tri-State Championship held by Washington and Jefferson College at Little Washington. Pennsylvania State was winner at the Pittsburgh Collegiate meet, West Virginia taking fourth place. At the Tri-State Championship, Carnegie Tech was first while West Virginia placed third.

We feel that the showing made was due entirely to the efforts of Coach "Nate" Cartmell in instructing his men. We are glad he is to be with us again next year.

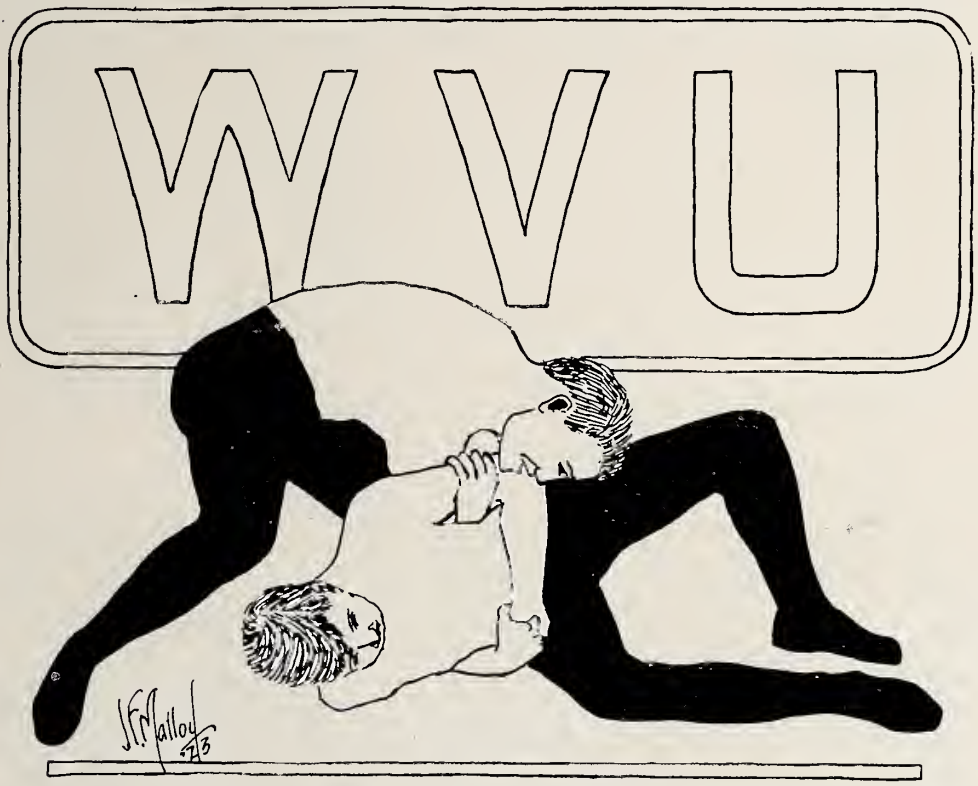

GEORGE HILL

Hill was captain of the team this year and was an invaluable man. He was fast and was always sure to place in the 100 yard dash. He has made wonderful progress in the broad jump and we are sure he will bring home records next year that will be enviable by any athlete.

NIGHTINGALE

Although Nightingale had represented New Hampshire for four years in track athletics his services were a wonderful aid to Coach Cartmell. He holds the intercollegiate three mile record.

W V U
WRESTLING

Wrestling was introduced for the first time as minor sport in the University's winter sport program this year. The season was a marked success when it is considered that there was not a member of the team that had ever had previous experience in the wrestling game until this fall with the exception of Capt. Hough. Coach Dayton showed by his fine development of his proteges that he is a very capable instructor in the mat game. Indeed the most of the credit for the team that the Mountaineers produced goes to Coach Dayton.

Captain Scotty Hough led his men to victory in contests with Ohio University, Carnegie Tech and the University of Virginia. The matches with Lehigh, Pennsylvania and Navy were lost but the Varsity grapplers made a fine name for themselves in these contests with schools that have been patrons of the mat game for years.

Coach Dayon will have back next year every member of this season's team with the exception of "Gene" Grow, including Captain Hough, Steve Harrick, Craig, Stickler, Lambert, Turkovitch, Pitzenberger, McDonald, Joe Harrick, Morris and others.

After the season had opened the Varsity elected "Scotty" Hough as their captain. He proved that he is perhaps the best 125 pound man in the east, although he did not have an opportunity to pull down the formal inter-collegiate championship this year. Capt. Hough went to Pittsburgh at the close of the season and entered an A. A. U, meet in the Smoky City for the championship of this section of the United States. He easily won the crown in this weight. There is no doubt in the minds of University followers that if Capt. Hough were permitted to have competed in the intercollegiates, he would have been awarded the title in his class.

The mat game grew in popularity with each succeeding match and drew crowds that surpassed the majority of the basketball games at the "Ark." The University's venture in this new field of athletic activties is certain to prove a big success and a very successful season is anticipated by all when the coming season is thought of.

TENNIS

The West Virginia University Tennis Team, under the tutelage of Coach Harlan Mumma, closed a very successful season and held the second place title in the tri-state tennis honors this year. Carnegie Tech was the only team that was able to defeat the Old Gold and Blue during the course of the season.

The season ended with the Varsity holding victorious over W. & J., Hiram College, Mt. Union and double victories over Pittsburgh and Bethany. One match with Carnegie Tech ended in a tie as did the match with Western Reserve University.

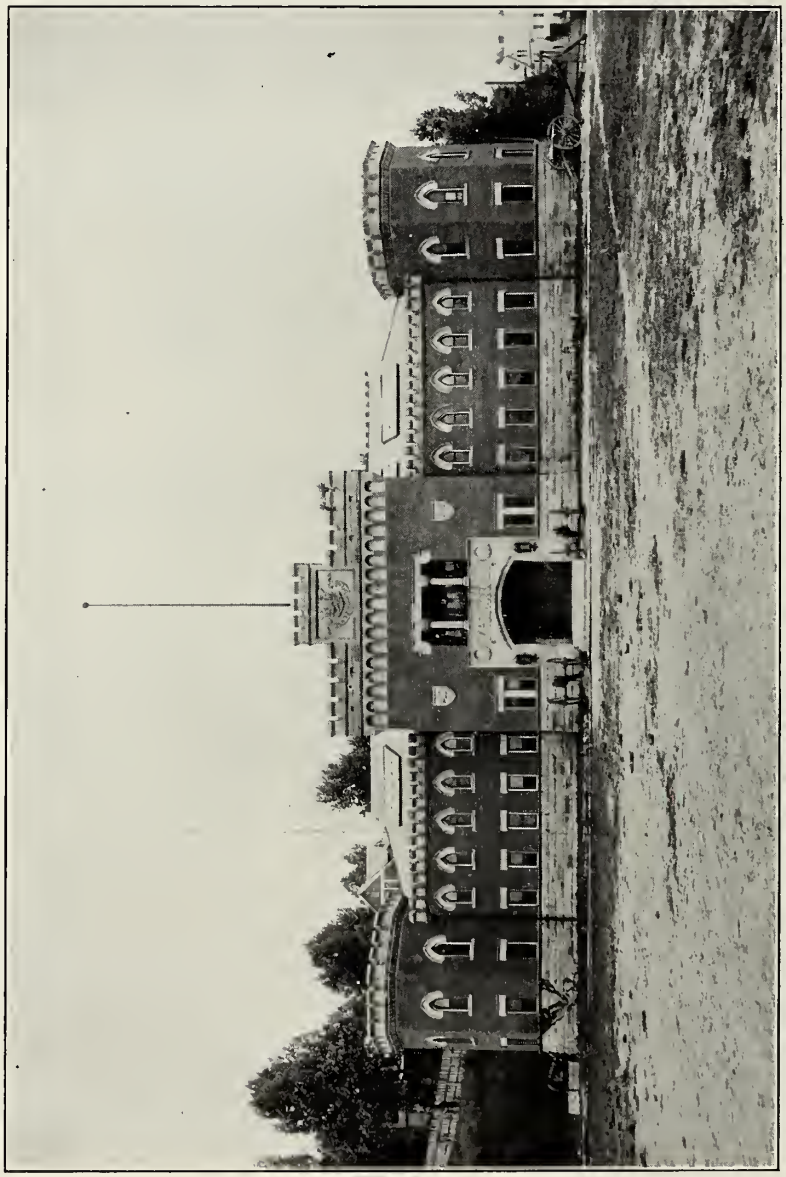

Local tennis enthusiasts were confident that the Mountaineers would be able to cop the tri-state title but the second match with Carnegie Tech ended in a decisive victory for the Plaid and destroyed the Varsity hopes for copping the title. However the Hillmen won undisputed title to the runner-up position.

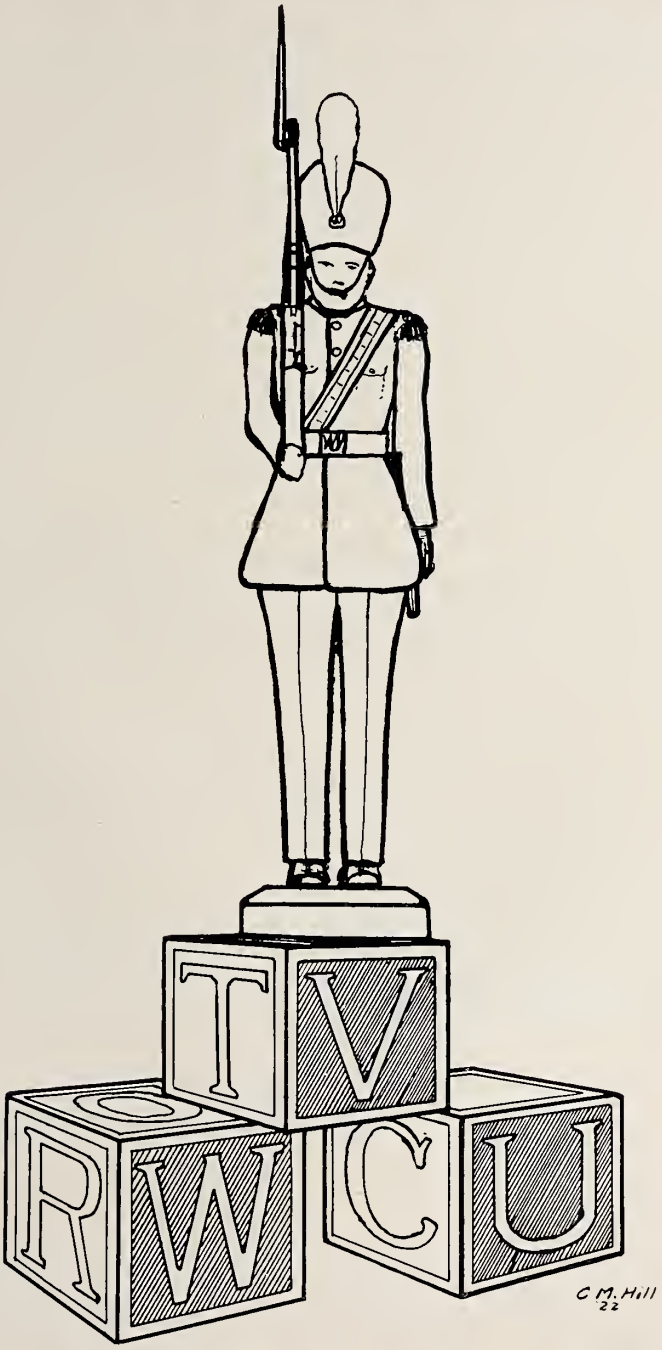

Capt. Clay Hammond proved to be one of the best and most consistent players that ever graced the Mountaineer courts. During the entire season he defeated every opponent that he was staked up against. Sporting writers all over the country were enthusiastic over Hammond's wonderful form and he was called by several as the best inter-collegiate tennis player in the east.

The tennis team will be hard hit by graduation next year as Capt. Hammond, McIntosh and Cutright will all likely be lost to next year's squad. Capt. Mumma believes though that the season next year will prove to be as large a success as has this past season. He is already working upon plans for next year's campaign which will include an indoor tennis contest for the indoor championship of the University. Capt. Hammond won this title during the past season.
